

BARBA IS UNDER ARREST

The officers yesterday afternoon landed Miguel Barba. He is one of the two men charged by the coroner's jury with killing Ramon Reyes in a hut near the Beer Garden last Sunday night.

Reyes was found at the Calumet and Arizona shaft where he was working as a brick mason. He made no attempt to get away, and was brought to the officers by a Mexican.

Thus far no trace has been found of Quives, who is generally supposed to have been the man, who committed the murder. The officers are inclined to think that he is still in the city, but in what part they have no idea.

Barba was found yesterday afternoon sitting on the floor of the city jail corridor. He had a greasy pack of cards, and extended an invitation to take part in a game of "coon-can," which was refused.

The man over whose head hangs an awful charge seems to be little worried about his position. He is more anxious about the wages he will lose, while in jail than about the outcome of his hearing for murder.

"What is your name," he was asked. "It is Manuel Barba," said he. "They have arrested me for being 'Miguel Barba,' but he is another man. I am not the one they want. I have another brother, but his name is not Miguel."

"Where were you last Sunday night?" was the next question.

"I was home and in bed, and no where near this house. I never saw the woman before they put me in jail. I did not have anything to do with the killing."

Separated from Barba by a barred door, was the Quives woman, who gave the testimony at the inquest that has resulted in Barba's arrest. She was groaning.

When questioned further, he stated that he had been in this country about six years, and has not been in Sonora for some time. He denied being mixed in any murder case at Placeritas, Mexico.

Barba is an intelligent sort of Mexican, and speaks English fluently. Several times he asked, who was going to pay him the $2 a day that he will lose while in jail. He could not be given an answer.

The officers are now inclined to think that this Barba is the man who killed Reyes, if it was a man of such name at all that committed the brutal murder. He was found quietly at work, and had made no effort to leave the city.

Just when his preliminary hearing will be held was not fixed yesterday. The officers are now searching for more evidence to show that he either was or was not at the Quives woman's house on Sunday night.

There is an ugly suspicion in the minds of some that the Quives woman took a more prominent part in the killing of Reyes than she has thus far admitted. Some go so far as to state that she was alone in the room with the man, when he was killed.

At the city jail yesterday the woman occupied a cell to herself. She was lying on the damp floor wrapped in an old blanket and groaning as if in great pain.

One of the prisoners stated that she had been complaining all day that she was sick at the stomach, and in great bodily pain. Her actions yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock were such as to indicate that she was suffering mentally or physically to some extent.

No one can be found who was in the vicinity of the Quives house on the night of the tragedy. In all the testimony that has been introduced there is not one witness who will admit that he saw Reyes or any one else enter or leave the house in which the killing occurred, at any time Sunday night. Those living only a few yards away claim that they heard no unusual noises there.

WONDERFUL EL TIGRE MINE

No mining transaction for several months has attracted the amount of attention as the bond obtained by B. F. Graham & Co., mining brokers, on the El Tigre gold mines. Subscription for stock was opened at the Miners and Merchants bank yesterday and last evening Cashier Hood reported several important transactions, although the company has not yet been formally incorporated and the stock certificates have not yet been printed.

The El Tigre mines have held the boards in this district for several weeks past. The sale of the property to Philadelphia parties for $600,000 and their failure to make the first payment at the last minute, is still fresh in the minds of the people. It will also be remembered that about this same time Mr. J. S. Douglas, representing Phelps, Dodge & Co., was anxious to secure this same property, but owing to a previous arrangement between the owners and B. F. Graham & Co., the property has now passed into their hands. A company is in course of formation and the stock in this now famous mine is being offered for sale—that is, 30,000 shares are on the market at the price of $10 per share, five dollars payable now and balance on the demand of the directors.

The names of the men who have been mentioned in connection with the new company are B. F. Graham, Lee Benton and L. C. Shattuck, which in itself is a guarantee of straight-forward business methods. The capitalization of the new company is $650,000, the purchase price of the mine, and the promoters of the company guarantee that the half of 30,000 shares will make the first payment on the mine and put a mill on the same, and as the ore is so rich and plentiful, it is expected that will pay for, not only its own development, but also the balance of the purchase price of the property, so that no further payments will be required from the stockholders.

And in the event that the 30,000 shares are not subscribed for, the Miners and Merchants bank of Bisbee, Arizona, will refund all moneys to such parties as may have subscribed and hold receipts or certificates.

It is an unusual incident to find the capitalization of such a promising property so low as the above. The owners are anxious to keep the capitalization down, knowing full well that from the day the mill is first run, the El Tigre will become a big dividend payer.

B. F. Graham and Lee Benton left yesterday for the east where beyond a doubt they will place the greater part of the thirty thousand shares with intimate friends who will invest their money on their recommendation. Before leaving Mr. Graham said: "I hope my friends in Cochise county will get in on this thirty thousand shares before it is all gobbled up. We have a world beater and I am willing to risk my reputation on it."

The "Cuico de Mayo" mine in the same locality, Colonel Garcia owner, has been worked to a depth of 700 feet and is a most promising gold and silver property. The "Mina Boy" mine, Lee Benton and J. H. McKim, former owners, is also in the same range about five miles distant and from this property alone a million dollars in gold has been extracted.

The Mina Roy, at present owned by A. C. Riordan, is being actively worked and has now attained a depth of 500 feet.
